

The Fred Hollows Foundation

Senior Coordinator Advocacy and Research

The Fred Hollows Foundation (FHF) is a non-government development organisation which seeks to eradicate avoidable blindness in developing countries and improve the health of Indigenous Australians.

The Foundation is committed to improving the health and wellbeing of Indigenous people in remote communities in Australia. The Senior Coordinator Advocacy and Research will work in close consultation with the Manager Indigenous Program, key staff in the Indigenous Program, key partners and The Foundation's Board Program Advisory Committee.

This is a full time position which will be based in the Darwin office. The Advocacy and Research Senior Coordinator will develop and implement strategies using evidence accumulated through The Foundation's programs, the input of our partners and The Foundation's reputation and resources to influence government policy, institutional practices and public opinion to support improvements in Indigenous health.

We are seeking a diligent and enthusiastic individual who has -

- Relevant qualifications and or extensive experience in Indigenous health policy and advocacy.
- Demonstrated research capability as well as sound analytical and conceptual skills with the ability to display good judgment and initiative.
- Strong existing relevant networks as well as effective relationship-building abilities.
- Superior written and verbal communication including liaison, negotiation and representational skills.
- Demonstrated people management skills.
- An understanding of the diversity of Indigenous culture and circumstances in Australia and a demonstrated ability to communicate effectively with Aboriginal people.
- A willingness to travel on a regular basis.
